LOSS TO RUN HIGH AS WIND, RAIN STRIKE

Mt. Gilead Suffers Brunt; Trees, Wires Are Blown Down.

TWO BARNS ARE BURNED

Marion Gets Deluge in Spots in Freak Downpour.

A storm of extreme intensity which swept across this district early last night touched Marion only lightly, but caused damages mounting into thousands of dollars in this vicinity.

Mt. Gilead Hit

Heaviest damage from the storm was reported in the vicinity of Mt. Gilead where a two-hour storm, one of the most severe in the history of the city, battered the town with heavy rainfall, hail, lightning and strong winds.

Two persons were stunned by lightning, while other bolts set two barns on fire near Mt. Gilead causing more than $2,000 damage. The Big Four railroad tower at Edison was struck by another bolt. Fire did $700 damage in Forest, in Hardin county, when a residence was struck by nightning.

Streets Blocked

In and near Mt. Gilead, streets and roads were blocked by fallen trees and power lines and telephone wires were snapped by falling branches and trees. Corps near Mt. Gilead and near Caledonia suffered heavy damage from winds and hail. Temperatures dropped substantially throughout the district.

BARNS BURN

Mt. Gilead Hit by One of Worst Storms in History.

MT. GILEAD, July 31—One of the most severe electrical storms ever experienced in the vicinity raged in and near Mt. Gilead for two hours Thursday night with an accompaniment of heavy rainfall, some hail, and a strong wind. The combination of electrical discharges and wind caused thousands of dollars of damage to trees and buildings in the small area affected.

Power lines were put out of commission for varying lengths of time and in some parts of the town no power was available from 6:30 p. m. through the entire night. Large broken branches and trees brought down the wires not only of the power company but also telephone wires. Early this morning at least 20 rural telephone lines were out of commission and many lines in the town and in and near Caledonia were still out. Cables between Mt. Gilead and Edison were broken.

In Mt. Gilead there was much damage done to trees when a section of west High street was struck by a twisting wind which cut down trees at the homes of E. H. Pol-

STATE GASOLINE TAX EXECUTIVE CLEARED

Delaware Man Is Not Only Reinstated, but Gets Raise in Salary.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., July 31 — J. C. Smart of Delaware, superintendent of the gasoline tax division of the state tax commission, was reinstated today by the commission following a report of a special investigation committee appointed after Governor White demanded his suspension.

Governor White asked suspension of Smart after two state examiners reported to State Auditor Joseph T. Tracy that Smart had failed to certify for collection against the Soline Oil company of Cleveland an item of $35,000 in gasoline taxes. The committee absolved Smart of any blame.

The governor turned the investigation over to State Finance Director H. L. Bevis who appointed Thomas C. Lavery, Cincinnati attorney, as the governor's representative on the committee and the state tax commission appointed William R. Walsh, of Cleveland, as its representative.

The committee went over the records and recommended the reinstatement of Smart and the increasing of his salary from $3,600 to $3,600 a year, placing him on a par with other superintendents of the commission.

It also recommended that Charles O. Wilson and Charles R. Nixon, examiners in the gasoline tax division who had reported the information against Smart, be separated from the force of the gas tax division "in the interest of maintaining harmony among..."

NOTED NAVAL HERO HONORED

Perry Victory Memorial Dedicated Today in Program at Put-in-Bay.

By The Associated Press

PUT-IN-BAY, O., July 31—The famous victory of Commodore Oliver Hazard Perry's American fleet over the British on Lake Erie in the War of 1812, which paved the way for the more than a century of peace between the two countries, was commemorated here today with the dedication of the Perry Victory memorial, a granite monument 352 feet high.

Although the monument memorialized an event of war, the keynote of the dedication was one of peace. Citizens and officials of both Canada and the United States joined in the ceremony.

Program Broadcast

The main part of the dedication was to be broadcast over a nation-wide chain of the National Broadcasting company from 4:45 to 5:45 p. m., Eastern Standard time. It included a message from President Hoover and the addresses of Governor George White of Ohio and others.

Commodore Perry's victory was won near here, Sept. 10, 1813, in one on the most picturesque naval combats in American history. After a hard-fought battle, the British surrendered to the American fleet, whereupon Perry sent his famous laconic message to General William Henry Harrison:

"We have met the enemy and they are ours. Two ships, two briggs, one schooner and one sloop."

Important Victory

The victory gave the United States supremacy on Lake Erie and compelled the abandonment by the British of Detroit; it recovered Michigan and made it possible for General Harrison's land forces to enter at once upon an aggressive campaign on the Canadian side.

The strategic advantage of the victory which hastened the end of the war, was accompanied by a psychological effect on the American people of almost equal importance, for it was the first time an American fleet had met a British fleet and defeated it.

The patient, a charity patient, was released from the hospital yesterday and was said to have fully recovered.

Dr. Yahya was stricken a few days after the successful operation was performed, it was said. Dr. J. W. McCall and Dr. Donald C. Bell, terming the stricken doctor a martyr to his profession, are making heroic efforts to save his life.

AIRMEN OFF ON NEXT LEG OF WORLD FLIGHT

Herndon and Pangborn Leave Moscow for Siberia in Quest of Record.

TRAILING FORMER MARK

Polando and Boardman Acclaimed as Heroes by Populace of Turkey.

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW, July 31—Hugh Herndon, Jr., and Clyde Pangborn, flying around the world in an effort to lower the mark set by Wiley Post and Harold Gatty, hopped off late today toward Irkutsk.

They got away at 5:20 p. m. (9:20 a. m. Marion time). They landed at Moscow from Berlin today at 11:52 a. m. (4:52 a. m. Marion time). They were approximately 17 hours behind the trail blazed by Wiley Post and Harold Gatty, but they believe they can make up the time they lost and lower the round-the-world record.

The flight from Berlin required a little more than 10 hours.

Fliers Confident

Pangborn said they had abandoned their original plan to make the Pacific crossing in one long hop from Tokyo to Seattle, and instead will follow the Post-Gatty route across Siberia and the Bering sea to Nome.

They believe they have an excellent chance to beat the mark set by their predecessors because they intend to make fewer and shorter stops.

They had excellent flying weather from Berlin although there were some headwinds, and when they landed both said they were feeling fine although they were looking a bit worn.

After the customs formalities at the airport they went to luncheon at a hotel, expecting to return to the flying field immediately.

Post and Gatty stayed here more than 12 hours and by reducing the length of their stop Herndon and Pangborn hoped to make up considerable time.

One advantage on the other side is that they can relieve each other at the stick while the ship is in the air. Post handled the controls throughout the earlier flight, Gatty serving as navigator.

Profiting by the experience of their predecessors, Herndon and Pangborn have fitted their plane with oversize wheels to prevent getting stuck in the mud as Post

GRAF BACK AFTER CRUISE INTO ARCTIC

Seven-Day Voyage Successful and "Easy," Declares Dr. Eckener.

By The Associated Press

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, July 31—The dirigible Graf Zeppelin completed her latest bit of globe-trotting today when she settled down in her hangar after a seven-day cruise to the Arctic.

The ship reached her home port sooner than had been expected and for an hour the big ship cruised over Friedrichshafen and Lake Constance before Dr. Hugo Eckener brought her to the grounds at 5 a. m. (11 p. m. Thursday, Marion time).

Friedrichshafen was excited and proud of this latest exploit of the big ship, but there will be no formal celebration. The city fathers announced that times were too hard for money to be spent that way.

The Arctic cruise was described by Dr. Eckener as highly successful and as a relatively easy trip.

He said they never were bothered by the discomforts of the Arctic.

Dr. Eckener already is planning another cruise to the north.

Scientists aboard the vessel charted more than 50,000 share kilometers of hitherto unknown territory, according to Professor Rudolph Samolvich, and sent up numerous observation balloons of which at least two undoubtedly reached the stratosphere.

"AL" DODGES CAMERAS

"Scarface Al" Capone (indicated by arrow) is shown as he ran past photographers into the federal building in Chicago yesterday to face charges of violation of income tax and prohibition laws. Shortly afterward came his unexpected and rather startling request to withdraw his plea of guilty, asserting it had been made on the basis of assurance from federal authorities that he would be extended leniency.

Marion, Galion Factories Get Equipment Awards

The Hercules Co. of Marion was awarded a contract for 35 road rollers by the state highway department of Pennsylvania at Harrisburg, Pa., today according to an International News Service story. The rollers are described as three-wheel power rollers to be used in road building and maintenance.

Although details of the award are lacking, it is understood that the order is of sufficient size to keep the factory busy for at least 30 days.

The Hercules Co. is operated in connection with the Osgood Co. and manufactures road rollers exclusively.

The Galion Iron Works of Galion, O., also shared in contracts in connection with lettings for highway construction and maintenance machinery.

The contracts let to the Galion Iron Works included: $58,835 for 50-eightfoot drawn graders; $132,124 for 70 eightfoot motor graders; $51,480 for 30 eight-foot wheeltype motor graders.

BACKWARD HIKE HALTED IN OHIO

By The Associated Press.

CANTON, O., July 31—Plennie L. Wingo, 36 of Abilene Tex., who set out three months ago to walk around the world backwards was in a hospital here today with a fractured ankle. Wingo stepped into a hole in the road. He had covered 1,700 miles of the globe-girdling trip.

Wingo announced from his hospital cot that he expected to continue his trip when his ankle heals. When he resumes his backward march he will use a rear vision mirror attached to the snout of his cap, he said.

HUNT HOLDUP TRIO

Suspect Two Notorious Ohio Criminals in Brewster Job

By The Associated Press

CANTON, O., July 31—Possibility that two of Ohio's most notorious criminals were members of the gang which yesterday robbed the Brewster Banking company at Brewster, near here, of $40,000, was being investigated by detectives today.

The suspects are Frankie Mitchell, fugitive Akron bank robber, and "Smiling Joe" Filkowski, Cleveland gangster. Two of the three robbers at Brewster resembled them, detectives said.

Mitchel, under sentence to the penitentiary, made a sensational escape from deputies a few months ago by leaping off a moving train while being taken to the prison. Since then, he has been suspected in the killing of a policeman at Bowling Green, also several months ago. Filkowski has been suspected by Cleveland police of several holdups and of several slayings. The last time police saw him he shot his way to freedom, [illegible] some of his bullets took effect.

BUCYRUS CAR CUT APPROVED

C., D. & M. Granted Permission To Reduce Interurban Schedule.

The public utilities commission today authorized the Columbus, Delaware & Marion Electric Co. to establish a diminished operation schedule between Marion and Bucyrus, effective Aug. 9, according to the United Press. The new schedule will provide for four cars each way daily.

The electric company asked for a decreased schedule for its interurban service several weeks ago when, according to company officials, the diminished amount of business on the line failed to make its operation profitable.

The company at present is operating seven cars each way each day. The only protest to the application of the company to decrease this number of trips to four daily was filed by the city of Bucyrus, which asked that the diminished schedule be so arranged as to give Bucyrus good connections with Columbus-bound interurbans and trains at Marion, and to provide chair car service between Marion and Bucyrus.

CAPONE GIVEN PERMISSION TO WITHDRAW PLEA

Federal Judge Wilkerson Allows Chicago Gang Leader To Stand Trial on Charges of Income Tax Law Violations.

RESERVES DECISION ON OTHER COUNTS

Court Sets Sept. 8 for Hearing in Unexpected Morning Session; Senatorial Probe of One Phase of Case Threatened.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, July 31 — "Scarface Al" Capone was granted leave to withdraw his plea of guilty to indictments for violation of the income tax laws in an unexpected morning court session today.

Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson set the case for trial Sept. 8 and announced he would reserve decision until that date on the gangster's motion to withdraw his guilty plea on the indictments for conspiring against the prohibition law.

The court gave its decision shortly after 10 a. m., having summoned attorneys at the last minute apparently desiring to avoid the turmoil of crowds that attended yesterday's session.

Capone Not Present

Only Michael Ahern was present to represent the gang chief and he took no part in the proceedings. Judge Wilkerson gave a brief statement of his decision, docketed the case for hearing Sept. 8, and adjourned court. Capone was not present. U. S. District Attorney George E. G. Johnson said he expected a trial date would be set Sept. 8, for late in that month.

Upon adjourning court yesterday Judge Wilkerson indicated he would give his decision at 2 p. m. today and the morning summons was a surprise.

In a brief statement in open court the judge said he believed the specific accusations made by the grand jury required a more serious charge than that contained in the liquor conspiracy indictment and he summoned the grand jury before him and directed that the evidence be presented anew before it.

Relative to the agreement between government attorneys and defense counsel that the prosecution would make certain recommendations, asserted by the defense to mean a lenient penalty, Judge Wilkerson observed:

Denies Comment

"As the cases are to be tried, the interests of justice require that there be no further comment on the proposed recommendations or arrangements that was attempted with reference to it."

While the fate of Capone hung in the balance, a threat of a congressional investigation of one phase of his case was heard.

It came from United States Senator Thomas D. Schall, Republican of Minnesota, who said at Minneapolis that he would ask the inquiry to determine what arrangement, if any, was made by the department of justice for leniency for Capone.

Probe Threatened

"Any arrangement" he said, "such as I understand was made between the department of justice and Al Capone, is almost unbelievable." He added that he had wired government agents in Washington, asking for full details of correspondence between George E. Q. Johnson, United States district attorney, and the department of justice at Washington.

The "bargain" referred to was described in a statement by Capone's attorney, Michael Ahern, who protested that Capone had received assurance that the government would recommend leniency if he pleaded guilty to the [illegible] counts and dismiss [illegible] stipulated pays [illegible] sentences [illegible]

REWARDS SPUR N. Y. MANHUNT

Police Intensify Search for Gunmen Who Killed Three-Year-Old Youth.

IMPORTANNT CLUE FOUND

Intended Victim of Assassins, a Bookmaker, Reveals Valuable Information.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK July 31—The hunt for the automobile gunmen who sprayed Harlems "little Italy" with bullets Tuesday night, killing one child and wounding four others, was intensified today as a new clue and offers of rewards totaling $25,000 spurred every policeman.

The new clue, which Commissioner Mulrooney called his most important, was the finding a man who said he was the intended victim of the gunmen. He is Anthony Bussone, a bookmaker, known in police circles as "Big Teed."

With Buzsone admitting to police that it was he the gunmen aimed at, detectives today almost definitely placed the cause of the shooting on a policy gaming feud and not a beer fight as previously reported.

Under constant questioning for four hours, Buzsone told police about his friends and enemies and furnished detectives with a long list of names, of men who might like to see him out of the way.

The two previous newspaper rewards of $15,000 was augmented today by $10,000, by the Patrolmen's Benevolent association, a police social group.

The American Legion, in a letter to Mayor Walker, offered to place 30,000 men at the disposal of the city to help rid it of gangsters.

Thousands of children were at East One Hundred and Seventh street today to watch the funeral services for Michael Vengali, three-year-old victim of the gangsters.

The dismissal of the charge against Miller follows the acquittal last Tuesday of Roy Vernon on a similar charge. Vernon was found not guilty by a juvenile court jury. The charges against the two men were identical.

IT'S ONLY A FRAME OF MIND.

OUR savings banks report the largest deposits in history — nearly double those of 1920. People are hesitating to spend their money, simply because of a frame of mind. They are hoarding hysterically, which is unpleasant, unnecessary and unwise.

For there are, in general, better bargains to be had right now than were available back in the year 1914. Check up this statement with any economist, or go to the Public Library and look up the newspapers of seventeen years ago. Then spend some money somewhere. This will help cure the depression by giving work to some of the unemployed and will at the same time net you very handsome bargains.

Shop at Uhler Phillips tomorrow—see the bargains and the values which are being offered in every department—now's the time to buy—

Printed crepe or chiffon, or one of the new printed cottons could be used attractively for this frock, and it could also be made in plain flat crepe, georgette, or, in a very new version, in satin. Sleeves are included in Pattern 1981.

In the light of the controversy on between the federal commission and the local association there, it looks as though there will have to be another surrender at Yorktown.

Thirty thousand members of the New York City clothing union have gone on a strike against racketeering in the industry and sweatshops. Here's a strike for which the disinterested onlooker might well wish success.

July corn went up to 72½ cents on the Chicago market, Thursday, while wheat lingered in the vicinity of fifty cents. This might be taken to indicate that there is a more insistent demand for whisky than for bread.

Half of the front of the Muir glacier, which without its "wings" is 9,200 feet wide and fifteen miles long and stands 210 feet above the water and 900 feet below, has fallen off. What the world needs is better distribution. Think what a hunk of ice like that would mean delivered next door to New York or Chicago!

There were 1,480 grade crossing accidents resulting in 645 fatalities the first four months of the present year, compared with 1,643 accidents and 643 deaths during the similar period of 1930. In a word, more beat the train to the crossing, but those hit were hit harder.

The Spanish ministry has resigned, and Provisional President Zamora has turned the government over to the cortes, but he doesn't show much of an inclination to surrender his job; in fact, he shows an inclination to hang on to it. Why not? What's the use of pulling off a revolution and then losing out on the grapes?

A Really Remarkable Flight.

The flight which had its inception when Russell Boardman and John Polando took off from Floyd Bennett field, New York, and ended forty-nine hours and twenty minutes later when they landed on the airport at Istanbul, Turkey, Thursday morning, was a notable one. Compared with any previous aviation event, it must be classed as truly remarkable.

Admitting that it takes courage and daring to attempt a transatlantic flight, the mere crossing of the Atlantic reflects more credit on the machine used than on the skill of the aviators using it. It is one thing to get across, and quite another to reach the designated goal and accomplish the feat contemplated at the time of taking off.

When Boardman and Polando loaded up their 300-horsepower monoplane, Cape Cod, with 728 gallons of gasoline and took off from New York, their purpose was to beat the world non-stop distance record of 4,091 miles made by Dieudonne Coste and Maurice Bellonte in flying from Paris to a point in China and make a safe landing upon a Turkish airport. They landed as planned after having covered a distance of approximately 5,000 miles, and thus accomplished the feat contemplated. Theirs was an accomplishment reflecting alike their skill in navigation and in piloting. They did not land somewhere along the European coastline or crash in some river or channel. They were not forced down short of and away from their goal. Precision marked their flight, in which respect it had but one forerunner in the way of a non-stop flight across the Atlantic—the trail-blazing flight of Lindbergh. And this precision, the skilful landing and the record length of the flight, make it one of the most notable, if not the most notable, feats of aviation.

All due credit to Clyde Pangborn and Hugh Herndon, who took off from the same field a few minutes after the Cape Cod in an attempt to beat the around-the-world time of Post and Gatty and were forced by fog to land at Moylegrove, Wales, five miles southwest of Cardigan, after an estimated flight of 3,150 miles. But a flight of that distance, ended by a forced landing in an out-of-the-way place, is not to be compared with the finished performance of Boardman and Polando.

A Mighty Sensible Talk.

There was a lot of good, sound sense in the speech delivered by Renick W. Dunlap before a picnic gathering of farmers at Lancaster Thursday, and it was most timely, too. What the assistant secretary of agriculture said should have been uttered long since and the same sentiment should be sounded by others until some of the delusions entertained with regard to agriculture are swept away.

Secretary Dunlap stoutly denied that "all farmers are brushing along the bare rim of bankruptcy," and he deprecated the idea that the interests of business and agriculture are antagonistic. "Agriculture wants business to prosper and business wants agriculture to prosper," he said. "We can not get out of depression by fighting each other."

Mr. Dunlap is utterly out of sympathy with the idea that wheat is the index crop in Ohio, and he urged farmers to keep in mind the fact that it isn't; to get away from the idea that a drop in wheat means disaster to Ohio agriculture. He holds the hen to be more important by half than wheat and the gentle cow twice as important. The returns from wheat constitute but six per cent. of the annual average gross income of the farmers of the United States. Corn is Ohio's greatest single crop, and it is commanding a splendid price. Wheat should not be permitted to dominate the Ohio farmer's thought.

Assistant Secretary Dunlap assailed the politicans and the farmers who demand that the farm board eliminate its 200,000,000 bushels of wheat from the market, holding that such action would not raise wheat prices five cents a bushel, and asserted that, if the stabilization corporation held its wheat for slightly less than three years, the storage costs would exceed the value of the grain. Calling the plan for storing wheat a ridiculous blunder, he said:

"These 200,000,000 bushels are not nearly so depressing a factor on the market as the activity of certain short sellers, and the persistence with which that section of the farm board hostile press wails and gnashes its teeth about the plight of the farmer."

Isn't it just possible that Mr. Dunlap is right in holding that the plight of the farmer is far less discouraging than it has been and is being pictured by those in opposition to the farm board? Isn't it, in fact, quite probable? And whatever the answers to those questions may be, is it not a fact which can not be controverted that wheat has been permitted to loom far more prominently in discussion of the agricultural problem than its importance in agriculture demands? And is it not true beyond all question, here in Ohio at least, that in discussing the agricultural situation, we have a tendency to forget that wheat is no longer king.

Paris dressmakers are displaying fall evening and daytime dresses with snug bodices and puffs in the back over the hips. After evincing sanity in dress in recent years, is womankind going back to the disfiguring bustle?

A Dream for Summertime.

Ten thousand weary housewives fussing with 20,000 steaming kettles in humid kitchens these July days should read about the former Miss Alcene McFarland, now the wife of Prince Johann, of Lichtenstein, with interest. Nothing is impossible in this world.

The former Miss McFarland, a native of Texas, had been living abroad with her mother a number of years. About two years ago she met Prince Johann in Paris, and it was love at first sight. Prince Johann's grand-uncle, Prince Franz I, is the present ruler of Lichtenstein; Prince Johann is the heir apparent. Prince Franz is now in his late seventies. An American girl probably will be the next reigning princess of Lichtenstein.

And Lichtenstein?

It is reputed to be one of the happiest realms of the world, a tiny principality free from debt, well-governed, without a standing army, no factories, only one railway, a handful of contented peasants, and with a royal house whose foundations are firm. It has been independent since 1866, and if the populace within its sixty-five square miles of territory worries over anything but raising grain, cattle and grapes, no one ever finds out about it. On a map of Europe Lichtenstein appears as a very small triangle, slightly southeast of Lake Constance in Switzerland.

There's no use denying that every one is a bit of a monarchist at heart, and the idea of being a princess and some day a reigning princess right in this hot weather—well, 10,000 weary housewives probably would see certain good points in it.

The ramifications of this banditry business are becoming positively distressing. Two young women reported to the police of Anderson, Indiana, having been held up by a lone bandit while the cars in which they were riding with their men friends were parked along roadways near that city, with the result that the wives of the two men friends have instituted proceedings in divorce.

Great Britain is planning to save $500,000,000 annually by cutting expenditures for social service including unemployment insurance and maternity and child welfare. Isn't it liable to prove a shock to a lot of those dole drawers if they have to go back to work?

A survey shows that the cost of conducting the schools of Chicago, without in either case considering the cost of teachers and instruction, will this year be $67.54 for each pupil against a cost of $10.16 in 1915, an increase of 564 per cent. That campaign of "Big Bill" Thompson against King George certainly was some luxury for the taxpayers of the country's second city.

The North Atlantic shipping conference in Paris decided, Wednesday, to cut first-class rates as much as thirty per cent., but will withhold official announcement of the details of the reduction which will not be made until August 17, when the cut will go into effect. Third-class rates were reduced thirteen per cent., and tourists will no longer be compelled to label their luggage third class. Supplementary charges for cabin position in all classes were also heavily cut. It will be an awful temptation to us hard-working spreaders of joy and sunshine in paragraphs to spend our "two weeks on pay" abroad.

THE TWO ROADS.

Editorial Opinion.

A DIGNIFIED MONARCH.

In striking contrast to the noisy visits of several royal personages in recent years, King Prajadhipok has lived in the United States three months, seeing much, learning much, bothering no one. The Siamese ruler was welcomed elaborately, in accordance with his rank, and promptly was allowed to pursue his own interests without the ballyhoo extraordinary that is forced upon channel swimmers, crown princes and transatlantic aviators.

It is likely that the king's visit was far more pleasant for him and for his queen because of this lack of ostentation or surpassing public interest. Furthermore, the relative quiet of their stay must be credited to the genuine dignity with which they conducted themselves. Both were cordial, but neither made a bid for the hero-worship that America grants with reckless abandon on the slightest pretext.

Ruling his millions of subjects by telegraph from a country estate in New York, King Prajadhipok brought to many Americans a new interest in the Far East, and especially in the peaceful, orderly nation of Siam. Living in the midst of a western nation for three months the king had a chance to read our newspapers and magazines, travel frequently and talk with numbers of Americans, informally and frankly.

He has learned far more than any royal visitor could in a breath-taking sweep across the continent, feted at every stop and harassed by the idle curiosity of every one. In short, it was the dignified sort of visit that brings pleasure and profit to visitors and hosts.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

What Will Better Marion?

The following is the answer of one citizen to the question, "What Will Better Marion?"—the second in the questionnaire circulated by Dr. Carl W. Sawyer to get a comprehensive insight into the community feeling regarding our home city, in the hope of arriving at a remedy for handicaps, if any, from which Marion may suffer. From day to day, answers of various citizens to the same question will be given publicity on this page.

Closer cooperation and coordination of our efforts. Show our gratitude for the opportunities our fair city has to offer us. Congratulate ourselves on our favorable position, with our fine agricultural section, and with no large cities nearby to molest us, and with abundant trunkline railroad service to take care of our manufacturing industries.

Treat the cause rather than the effect of our ills with confidence, trustworthiness, hope, vigor, optimism, honesty, cooperation and a will-to-do. Your sole contribution to the sum of things for the welfare of Marion is yourself.

We have committed the Golden Rule to memory, now let us commit it to life. Our city divided by internal feuds and torn by factional fighting can not hold its own against a united people or group.

What we need is some plan that will bring about closer cooperation and a better understanding of our citizenship and between our various groups and interests in the city to the advantage of Marion. An understanding and workable arrangement with our financial institutions toward the growth of our city rather than its destruction.

We are passing through a crisis that is going to test our willingness to cooperate. Without this cooperation on the part of every individual, collectively or otherwise will mean a farreaching backward step for our fair city. That in turn will mean deflation of property and discontent.

If we would but realize that this condition is our individual problem and find out what part we as individuals can play for its restoration, then work to that end, whole-heartedly, we could accomplish whatever we desired.

Twenty Years Ago.

It was Monday, July 31.

The Star carried a story to the effect that the Chautauqua was a financial success, the receipts having been about $6,000 and the expenses a trifle over $4,000.

The lives of the members of the M. C. Madden family at Milford Center were saved by their dog, which lost its life when it awoke them, enabling them to escape from the burning apartment they occupied.

A loss of $3,000 was suffered by J. E. Blue, when the barn and its contents on his farm six miles northwest of LaRue was destroyed by fire.

A marriage license was issued to Mrs. Jessie B. Marmon and Samuel McElroy.

Lloyd R. Garver secured a writ of habeas corpus and with Deputy Sheriff Cornelius Breen went to the home of his fiancee, Miss Nannie Ruth Spragg, aged eighteen, secured her liberty, she having been restrained by her parents, and took her to the home of his parents, where they were married by Justice Charles E. Gompf.

"Pacifier" Habit Is Harmful.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

In a recent article I referred to the problem of training infants and establishing certain good habits. Too many parents overlook the importance of this training.

There is no doubt that a great many of the undesirable habits of infants and older children can be attributed to carelessness. Failure to correct bad habits leads to many undesirable traits in the child.

A practice indulged in by many mothers is that of giving the baby a "pacifier." This habit, soon acquired by the infant, is a hard one to correct.

It is true, of course, that most mothers have a great deal of housework to do. So long as the child is quiet, the tired little woman can go about her work. When the baby cries, it is natural to seek some manner of stopping the wails. Then a hard rubber nipple, or pacifier, is given the child. This pleases the baby and it does not cry for the time being.

Its use is bad for the child. Sucking on a pacifier spoils the natural arch of the mouth. The yielding bones of the jaws are deformed by the abnormal practice.

The pacifier is in and out of the mouth, carrying germs and dirt into the baby's mouth. It is responsible for conveying infections and diseases to the infant.

If your baby has formed this undesirable habit, now is the time to stop it. Do so at once. Take away the pacifier and never let the child see it again. At first it will cry for the evil toy, but eventually will forget all about it.

If ever you are tempted to give your baby a pacifier, please recall what I have said. It will take a long time to break the youngster of the habit. The child will be a stronger and healthier baby without it.

A Weather Wizard.

BY ARCHIBALD HENDERSON.

The man-in-the-street is always complaining of the weather, and picking small flaws in the daily meteorological reports. Yet perhaps he does not stop to reflect how remarkable this service is, and the percentage of times the reports are correct, as compared with the comparatively small number of times it is positively incorrect. Meteorology is a science, but in the nature of things it is not an exact science like mathematics. Too many unknown, uncertain and incalculable factors enter into questions of weather to make predictions infallible.

Consider the British meteorological office, for example, and see how it operates. Here are located a group of scientists under the direction of Dr. G. C. Simpson, C. B., F. R. S. He is actually, that mythical clerk of the weather, of whom we have heard so much. For the British service, observations are made daily over an area extending from within the Polar circle to North Africa, from Russia to the Azores. Weather readings are taken within this vast area four times daily, and broadcast by powerful wireless stations from each station to all the others. Seventy-five stations in North America also send in their observations daily.

Messages also come in from a number of ships plying the Atlantic ocean which cooperate in this service. There are, moreover, more than sixty stations scattered throughout the British isles. Many of the observers are voluntary assistants, carefully trained by meteorological experts to do this sort of work. They may be lighthouse keepers, or farmers, or newspaper reporters, for example. They are expert observers of the sky, they have developed what is known as a weather eye. They wire in the results of their observations to Adastral house, Kingsway, London, the headquarters of the meteorological office.

There are hundreds of other stations which take observations a number of times daily. Also the health resorts make a point of maintaining their own meteorological stations, concerning themselves with the weather for the day, the temperature and duration of sunshine. Rainfall is measured at nearly 5,000 stations distributed over the British isles. In addition there are the five observatories where meteorological and other sorts of observations are daily made with self-recording instruments. These stations are located at Kew, Eskdalemuir, Aberdeen, Lerwick and Valentia.

Dr. Simpson is a distinguished scientist, widely known for his discoveries. As recorded by Bridges and Tiltman in "Master Minds of Modern Science," from a speech in 1930 when Dr. Simpson received the Symons Memorial medal: "His studies indicate that during a thunderstorm non-conducting clouds are floating within a conducting atmosphere, thus completely reversing accepted ideas. . . . In a thunderstorm there is a region in which every time a raindrop breaks, the water of which it is composed receives a positive charge. A corresponding negative charge is given to the air and is absorbed by cloud particles which are being carried upward. The rain which falls when the air-currents are vertical is thus positively charged, while at a distance from this region it is negatively charged. -- Copyright, 1931, International Feature Service, Inc.

Ohio and Repudiation.

BY J. H. GALBRAITH.

Ohio came within a few votes once of repudiating her just debts. The legislature faced the problem of meeting an interest payment of several hundred thousand dollars with but a small balance in the state treasury with which to do it. That is what brought the legislature perilously near the verge of repudiation.

In November, 1841, when the Whig administration of Governor Tom Corwin was in operation, the treasury balance was but $1,393.33. On the first of the following January there was to fall due a $400,000 payment on the public debt in addition to $300,000 temporary loans. These sums do not look so large now, but they were large then.

It was in the face of this condition that the legislature faced the repudiation proposition. A resolution of repudiation had been introduced and on a vote, lacked but seven votes of enough to adopt it.

Alfred Kelley, a citizen of Columbus, to whom the state is indebted for many other distinct services rendered it, came to the front at this time vigorously opposing this disgraceful effort. He did not stop with blocking of the repudiation proposition, in the legislature, but exerted himself to raise funds with which to meet the state's obligations.

The stand of the state against repudiation in itself greatly sustained the state's credit, and he went to New York and by his personal efforts secured loans sufficient either to pay or refinance urgent debts. He was a prominent Whig and was thus able to at once save the credit of the state and the Whig party. Four years later he secured the passage of a taxation law providing for the first general tax upon property in the state.

SOME MISUNDERSTANDING.

Editor Star—There has been some misunderstanding and incorrect statements made relative to the Marion City hospital and the proposed staff. Any legally-qualified physician can take his patients to the hospital, providing he abides by the rules and regulations laid down by the administrative head of the hospital, which in Marion is the safety director of our city government. It is also expected that a physician will take his pay cases there as well as his charity cases. It would be manifestly unfair to the taxpayers of Marion to have a physician take pay patients to his own hospital and unload his charity patients upon the Marion City hospital.

There also has been a misunderstanding among railroad employes relative to their rights in the hospital. The railroads provide capable surgeons and hospital facilities for their injured employes, and they are expected to employ these surgeons and the hospital. But if for any reason these men prefer a physician of their own choice they are expected to pay for his services. If this particular physician runs a hospital of his own, it would necessarily follow that this injured employe should go to this privately-owned hospital and pay for his surgical and hospital care.

BENCHES FOR AGED MEN.

Editor Star—It looks sad to me to see elderly men who come up town for various reasons, who, when they get tired have no place to rest excepting the hard stone steps of the court-house without any back rests. It seems to me they deserve better treatment. They are not wanted in the stores or offices. I would suggest that the county commissioners be asked to place some benches on the esplanade, the same as they have in many other towns. In winter the benches could be placed inside, where old men could again have a pleasant place to rest. To be sure, the ladies have a rest-room, but they are back in where they can not see or be seen by their men folks. I think it is better for them in the open. What do the commissioners say?

Frenchmen Poor Dressers.

Paris—By Mail—As a point of chival will concede French ladies are sm dressed—although most so habited escaped me. But I will megaphone from top pinnacle of the Empire spire tha French gentleman is the worst-dressed generally the most untidy in the world.

Here was handled all of the messages to a from Washington to the American embass in Paris, Berlin, London and Rome concerni the moratorium.

Triphammer action was required at times—as well as the utmost secrecy. No m ter how long the message might be, it was perative that it be delivered to the proper a thority in the shortest possible time.

Ton-Gee Is the Greatest Ever

Man Nearly Smothered from the Gas in Stomach; Now Free of All Suffering.

"It would be IMPOSSIBLE for me to ever express in words what I think of Ton-Gee. This medicine is simply wonderful," said Mr. George Carberry, of Georgetown, Ohio, while talking just a few days ago about this 'Wonder Mixture of Nature's Ingredients,' Ton-Gee medicine, which is now being introduced to the public in this city at the Stump and Sams drug store, Marion. Mr. Carberry has lived in this locality for 20 years and is widely known.

"In the last five or six years I had taken a world of medicines for my stomach trouble," Mr. Carberry continued. "This finally got so bad that I was in misery with it about all the time. My meals would turn into gas inside of me and I would get so full of this gas that I could hardly eat when it came time for the next meal. I was simply MISERABLE with this gas and would even feel like I was SMOTHERING on account of it, for it would feel like it was shutting off my breath, and I had headaches and dizzy spells from this stomach trouble and another thing was that it bothered me so much at night, in fact, I could hardly sleep AT ALL because of this gas and misery in my stomach organs and would have to get up out of bed several times during the night and walk around to try to get some relief and I always got up in the morning feeling so worn out that I hardly cared what happened. Had also gotten to be a great victim of bowel trouble and had to keep taking something for my bowels all the time to get them to act.

"Now, as I said, I had taken a regular WORLD of MEDICINES in the last five years, but nothing had ever done me any good, and I had just about lost all hope, but I heard so much about Ton-Gee that finally I made up my mind to try it. And I will say that it surely was a LUCKY DAY for me when I got it, for in no time at all I could see that my whole condition was changing. In just a FEW DAYS there was a GREAT CHANGE in the way I felt after eating, for the gas quit forming and I didn't feel stuffed-up after my meals and could go to bed and get my sleep and rest and not have any trouble at all with my breathing and didn't have to get up and walk the floor most of the night like I did before.

"The above is the benefit I got out of ONE BOTTLE of this medicine, in fact, I can truthfully say that one bottle did me more good than anything else I took in five years. But I didn't stop there but kept on taking it and have simply changed all over. I have a great appetite now and sleep soundly all night and get up feeling like some other man. It also has the world beat in the way it acts on the bowels, for it seems entirely natural and you hardly know you've taken anything, but it certainly cleanses and regulates them, in fact, they are regular now for the first time in YEARS. I haven't had a dizzy spell or headache since I started taking it. People say I hardly seem like the same person and I know I surely feel like another man, and I want to recommend this great medicine to all suffering people everywhere, for I know what it can do for them."

Warner Baxter, a Columbus, O., "boy who made good in the city," and Dorothy Mackaill are co-featured in the current offering at the Palace through tonight, "Their Mad Moment." The picture has a picturesque setting, the locale being Biarritz and the Basque country in Spain among the Pyrenees mountains. Baxter is effective as Esteban, a Basque sportsman who is vacationing at the seashore where he meets Miss Mackaill as Emily, step-daughter of Nella Walker, an ambitious luxury-seeker. The stepmother is anxious to marry Emily to Lawrence Grant, who plays the role of a wealthy titled Englishman. The plot develops when Miss Mackaill realizes her love for Baxter after promising to marry Grant. The story is not new, but parts of the acting are good. ZaSu Pitts and Nance O'Neil portray their roles well, and Leon Janney, the juvenile star, makes a brief appearance.

Chet Spencer comes to the Palace as master of ceremonies for the Saturday and Sunday stage show with three acts, William and Granger in "Putting It Over," Linda and Drigo, dancers and Dora "Boots" Early in a novelty act. Manny Stiel and his band round out the bill.

On the screen is "Murder by the Clock," featuring William (stage) Boyd, Lilyan Tashman, Regis Toomey, Irving Pichel and Sally O'Neil. It's the story of a man murdered twice in the same evening, written by Rufus King

HEALTH OFFICIAL ISSUES WARNING

Hardin County Commissioner Cautions Users of Water from Dug Wells.

Special to The Star

KENTON, July 31—That owners of dug wells in Kenton and Hardin county should make certain that the water is free from contagion, especially typhoid germs, was the statement made by Dr. J. H. Holcomb of Hepburn, county health commissioner.

"It would be advisable that the water in every dug well be looked after, especially at this time of the year when typhoid is much more prevalent," he declared.

Water taken from a dug well on the farm of John U. Heilman, east of Kenton, was recently examined by the state health department and found to contain typhoid infection, according to a report issued by Dr. Holcomb. He also requested that any person who might have drunk water from the well be immunized against typhoid.

During the past several weeks water from the wells at seven tourist camps over the county were state examined and found to be pure, the commissioner said.

SHOOT GAS WELL IN WYANDOT COUNTY

Estimate Flow at More Than a Million Cubic Feet at Lust Farm.

Special to The Star

UPPER SANDUSKY, July 31—The gas well on the George Lust farm, two miles south of McCutchenville and a part of the Tymochtee gas field, was shot Thursday afternoon about 4:30. Drilling was stopped after reaching a depth of 1357 feet which was 37 feet through the Trenton rock. 147 quarts were lowered into the well and discharged. Phantoms Still Roam but Minus 3 White Sheets

By The Associated Press

MEDIA, Pa., July 31—There may be ghosts and phantoms at Glen Mills cross road near Media, where 2,000 persons gathered at midnight to catch a white-shrouded figure, but a calloused state police detail is richer by three bed sheets today—the result of a hectic night's work.

Every midnight since Tuesday, folks around this staid old Quaker town say, a fiendish laugh has resounded over the fields of the John Storey farm and a white figure appears atop an embankment.

Farmers, merchants, milkmen and spooners have told of seeing the ghost. Two women motorists became so excited, they say, at seeing the apparition, they crashed their vehicles into a ditch.

Armed with revolvers, stones, clubs and determination, more than 2,000 persons were at the lonely spot last night to catch the ghost of the slayer of John Storey. Legend has it the killer, after hacking Storey's body, hanged himself in the orchard.

At midnight a state trooper saw a white form and grabbed it. He got a sheet which he still has; the wearer got away.

A few hundred feet away a dozen cautious men snatched another sheet. Underneath was a stack of hay.

A mile away troopers caught a girl flitting about with a sheet wrapped about her. She didn't break a law, they discovered, but they took the sheet away. She said she was just having some fun.

"What to do, what to do," said the troopers as the 2,000 citizens announced they would return again tonight to catch the ghost.

OHIO AND W. VA. IN EXTRADITION CLASH

Gov. Conley Refuses To Sign Papers as Retaliation Against White.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., July 31—Ohio stood aloof today in its dispute with West Virginia over the exchange of prisoners wanted on non-support charges.

Governor Conley, of West Virginia focused attention on the conflict yesterday by refusing to sign extradition papers for the return of A. L. Brown from Williamson, W. Va., to Portsmouth to answer charges of abandoning a minor child.

The reason given by his secretary was that Governor George White of Ohio had refused on two occasions to honor papers in similar cases.

"We don't care what they do in West Virginia," said S. P. Dunkle, executive secretary of White. "If they ask for the return of a prisoner in a case which warrants that action, we will honor the papers."

Dunkle said he could recall only one instance of Governor White's refusal to comply with West Virginia's requests.

The West Virginia authorities wanted us to return a man named J. B. Samples, who was under arrest in Columbus on a non-support charge," He said. "Investigation disclosed that there was a dispute over the parentage of the child whom, it was charged, he failed to support. For that reason the papers were not honored. The charges were not technically correct."

Governor White was away from the capital today. He had gone to Put-In-Bay to attend the dedication of the Perry memorial.

She lists her membership in eight orders in the city, and has held high offices in all of them with the exception of one in which she has not been active because of the heavy duties of the other groups.

CHAPTER 16

At the Comus Ball

DIVITT came with the Marquesa Cabrera down the stair of the Hotel Tijon and through the patio into the parlors. Divitt, glancing at Molly in her cage, looked for Juanita. Juanita was not there, nor Gabreau.

Divitt, furious, went over to Molly. Molly knew nothing. Molly's eyes were on the marquesa. Divitt turned abruptly, bidding the marquesa follow him.

He found Gabreau at the top of the stair outside Juanita's door.

"I jus' come," Gabreau explained. "She," pointing to Juanita's door, "go out because Ledbetter yell at her. He foller her. I come out, and both gone."

"Get back," said Divitt. "I'll take care of this."

He himself, upon entering the patio, had seen a man come from the door and go out the gates. It had no doubt been Ledbetter. Divitt knocked on Juanita's door.

The door opened, and Juanita stood, trembling and furious, about to speak, halting at sight of the marquesa. Divitt had closed the door.

"I hear Ledbetter has annoyed you again," he said and, as Juanita remained silent, added, "Marquesa Cabrera, this is Juanita —or, as you will know her, Senorita Ysabel Flores. . . . You may speak freely before the marquesa, Juanita."

The marquesa herself began to speak freely—a liquid patter of Spanish, at which Juanita, who had acknowledged the introduction by an upward movement of the chin, grew milder as she replied in the same soft music. The marquesa caught her hand. They sat down on the bed. Divitt, too, sat down. The change in Juanita was worth watching.

"She is wonderful to find," the marquesa said, turning to Divitt. But Juanita had clouded again.

"May I see you alone?" she said to Divitt.

Divitt opened the door. "Pardon us, Marquesa. . . . Just a moment, on the balcony."

The Marquesa graciously took her leave.

"I prefer her to go, myself," Divitt explained when he shut the door, "for she knows nothing. You may speak freely to her about your work, but that is all. You came from the Argentine, are in my house. That's all she's been told. She has just come from Spain — no fortune, but a marchioness and a worthy companion."

"Thank you," said Juanita, "but if I am to be insulted and my veil torn off—"

"Your veil? Where?"

"In the court. Mr. Ledbetter followed me."

"It is dark in the court," said Divitt. "And Ledbetter will not be admitted hereafter. I shall instruct Gabreau. Moreover, you are not to be in the parlors every night. You'll be out with the marquesa. Is that all?"

"That is all," said Juanita. "Except—I appreciate— You are very kind."

"Not at all," Divitt answered, opening the door. "You have brought many new people to the place. You will come back all the fresher. . . . All right, Marquesa."

Kirk called for Juanita at the Tijon the night of the Comus ball waiting in the Marquesa de Cabrera's suite.

Kirk had telephoned, had been connected with the marquesa. They would go—Juanita and the marquesa. Kirk carefully selected the flowers. White roses for Juanita. Orchids for the marquesa.

Orchids did not suit her. Kirk decided when she appeared in a red satin dress and huge earrings. "Carnations," thought Kirk, "or red and yellow flowers."

The marquesa had pinned his orchids at her waist and sat now on the divan, protruding her brocaded slippers with their jeweled heels, moving her red feather fan and chatting in voluble blurred English about America, about Seville, which she had just left, about the Senorita Flores, her beloved charge.

Kirk was glad to meet this member of the senorita's entourage. He listened to the marquesa until the door opened and Juanita appeared, lovely in yellow tulle, carrying his roses.

"The Mystic Krewe of Comus is masked and in costume," Kirk explained, as they rode toward the theater where the ball was to be held. "The master of ceremonies calls out your name and you step upon the floor. At supper we unmask. * * * You never went to a ball like that, Senorita Flores?"

The senorita never had.

"Oh, but Ysabel!" exclaimed the marquesa. "Then you will put on a mask, Mr. Stanard. How we gon' know you?"

"You'll know me," said Kirk, "because I shall wave my hand."

At the theater Kirk took them to their seats in what was the parquet circle. The parquet had been cleared for the dancers.

"The high-sign, Marquesa," he said as he left them. "Like this."

But there were so many high-signs. The Krewe of Comus, appearing an army of Pierrots and Harlequins, beasts, pirates and devils, followed their queen with the court ladies, marched about the ballroom, then broke ranks in the dance. The house murmured excitedly as the queen, white and splendid, sat upon the throne.

The lights grew dim, and a silver knight blew a blast on his trumpet.

"The Marquesa de Cabrera!" he called.

The marquesa rose and moved across the floor, bright heels flashing. A masked black devil bowed low, received the marquesa in his arms. They moved out upon the floor.

"Miss Bettina Byrnes!"

A slip of a girl in blue met a grinning Cheshire cat.

"Mrs. Dick Preston!"

Sleepy eyes and a red wind-blown bob. A tall Pierrot bowed.

"Senorita Ysabel Flores!"

A whisper went through the house. "Who is she?" "Came with Kirk Stanard. Visiting here with the Marquesa de Cabrera — that first one, dancing with Adrian Fouche."

Juanita was dancing with a black and orange Harlequin.

"I know your voice," said Juanita. "I know your dancing."

Kirk wondered why the confession would make him so happy. "You could not disguise yourself from me, either," he answered in a low voice.

"How is Mrs. Belaise?" Juanita asked.

"Bored with Biloxi. She never goes there till the carnival is over. She wants you and the marquesa to visit her in Biloxi. Will you do it?"

"I'd love to."

"It will help us to keep her there, and it's a part of the coast you wouldn't see otherwise" offering every reason for her going except the one closest his heart. What would prevent his visiting in Biloxi? I'll take you to Ship Island while we're there and to the Isle of Caprice, the Monte Carlo of these parts. The marquesa will let you, I know. I'll speak to her tonight."

The devil dancing with the marquesa, passed close to them, his eyes meeting Juanita's under his mask. Kirk, observing him, said, "He's got the third dance with you and he can't get it off his mind. And I've got the supper dance and the last. I can't get that off my mind either."

"Does it burden you?"

He nodded. "Like balloons that won't let me stay on my feet."

The encore was a waltz, the lights dropping low. Strangely enough, Kirk guided Juanita through the dancers almost in silence, returning with her to her seat just as the marquesa and Mephisto arrived there. Mephisto kissed the marquesa's hand, bowed to Juanita.

Juanita danced with the Cheshire cat this time. The marquesa danced with Kirk. "He is charming," she confided to Juanita. "We are going to their place in — in Biloxi!"

"When?" Juanita asked.

"I cannot tell. I must see Mister Divitt first."

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

—BY JUDD M. LEWIS—

TODAY would have been the last day of school this week if it wasn't vacation. When I had let Jubilee down by his rope and went down and got the pail and milked the dummed brutes and strained the milk, and we had all got as far as Ebbie's corner on the way to the pasture, he was there waiting for us, and he stooped down and patted Jubilee on the head, and Jubilee wagged his tail, and Nibs asted Feeble if she didn't wish she was Jubilee and we all gave her the laugh and she got red, and Ebbie supprized us all; he stepped up to Nibs and said, "Would you like to have me pat you on the head?" and Nibs had seen him pat me a couple and so he told him he didn't mean anything.

When we got to the pasture and had all dove into the creek and got cool we looked around for Feeble's terrapin, but it wasn't in the creek, and I was showing Youniss how to swim in a deep place, and Ebbie came up and told me to show her how to float first, so he showed me how to turn her over and to have her hold her hands above her head to balance her body, he said the floaty place is in the chest because of the lungs which are there and her legs are heavy on one end of her, and if she puts her arms above her head that makes them heavy on the other end of her and balances her legs, and he told her to take a long breath and hold it and to just let her face out of the water, so she did it, and we took our hands away slowly, and she floated like a chip, and in a little while she could turn over on her back all by herself, and she would float all around where the water was still with her eyes shut whilst the rest of us was diving and swimming, and we were having a good time when Feebie hollered and pointed and I looked at Youniss with her eyes shut and a frog had climb up on her chest, and Youniss must have thought it was one of us tickling her, and she just smiled and didn't open her eyes; and then I seen what Feeble was really pointing at. There was a big watersnake after the frog, and he was just beginning to slide up on Youniss when me and Ebbie dove at the same time, and we came up on different sides of Youniss and I was just reaching for the snake, and it had lifted up its head to take a sock at me when Ebbie grabbed it right by the neck, so close to its head that it couldn't turn and bite him, an dthen the frog slid off and dove, and Youniss put her feet on the bottom and opened her eyes and asted what all the excitement was about. Because her ears were under water she hadn't heard anything. We took the snake up in the middle of the pasture and all got rocks and then Ebbie turned it loose. It didn't have a chance. It had a blunty tail. We hung it over the fence belly up, and then we went to the vacant lot to play ball and it didn't rain all day.

"Heart of a Wife"

—BY ADELE GARRISON—

Dicky Offers Disapproval

As I had secretly feared, Dicky hanging in the room made me so self-conscious over the revision of my third act that, when I took my pencil and started to read what Lillian had typed, I found myself unable for the first minute or two to get any coherent idea of what I myself had dictated. Dicky himself, came to my rescue. Ostensibly taking up a magazine he turned his chair so that his back was toward me.

"You won't have anything for me to look at for a half hour or so, I know," he said comfortingly. "There is an article in here I have been wanting to read for a week and haven't found the time. If you need me, yell; otherwise I'll Browse among the green pastures of Literature, with a capital B and a capital L."

It was fully five minutes, however, before I could release myself from the inhibition of his presence so near me. It seemed as though he were looking over my shoulder, waiting for each page to come from my blue pencil. Finally, however, I realized that he was not pretending to read the magazine but was genuinely absorbed in it and was paying no attention whatever to what I was doing.

Dicky Reads the Play

Fortified by that knowledge, I attacked the revision as wholeheartedly as I had done my dictating. I was distinctly apprehensive for it did not seem possible that any work dictated at such speed as I had used, could be worth anything. But soon it dawned upon me that Lillian had been right when she said that rapid work done "hot off the mind" was often the best.

I could not judge my work as compared with that of other playwrights although I was heartened by Shaw's dictum that it was the best thing she had read in many a day. I realized that this third play of mine which I had begun and completed between midnight and morning was distinctly better in construction, than my first two acts had been. Whether Philip Zeritsen, who approved the first part of my work unqualifiedly, would subscribe to that opinion was, of course, upon the laps of the gods. I was about half through my revision when this conviction came to me. I suddenly felt the need of his opinion. I knew Dicky's critical faculty, and I spoke to him with the feeling that if he approved my work, even if he were not as enthusiastic as Lillian had been, I should be doubly armed for my interview with Mr. Veritzen.

"Have you read these now?" I asked, thrusting the pages I had revised into his hands.

"Delighted!" he quoted smiling-ly and took the pages eagerly while I went back, ostensibly to my revising but in reality to a furtive searching of his face as he read over the revised pages.

I had found so few errors in spelling or construction, thanks to Lillian's skilled professional training which enabled her to turn out perfect copy, that I was well ahead of my time limit and could afford to rest while I tried to determine Dicky's verdict.

The Verdict

He was evidently approving. He read down each page attentively, smiling occasionally as some line of dialogue pleased him. Then I noticed his face became more intent and his eyebrows knitted in patent disapproval. When he suddenly glanced up, so quickly that I had not time to resume a pretense of work, he forced his lips to a smile, laughably incongruous with his frowning eyebrows.

"I agree with Lil," he said heartily: "You have done a mighty good piece of work here."

I rose from my chair, pushing my manuscript to the back of the desk and crossing to him before he could rise, put my hands upon his shoulders and looked down into his eyes.

"Dont try to fool me, Dicky," I said earnestly. "You may not disapprove of the thing in its entirety, but there is something about it, you don't like. What is it? please tell me!"

His Criticism

"Suppose that there is some little thing," he parried, for where Dicky's critical judgment is concerned, he will not indulge himself in the "little white lies" or rather the deep ivory ones which he uses to round off the sharp edges of his social problems. "Why look for trouble? Lil hasn't seen it or she would have spoken of it. Neither have you or you'd have blue-pencilled it. It's a hundred to one that old man Veritzen will share your opinion and Lil's. In all probability I'm blood brother to the lad who claimed that the whole regiment, barring himself, was out of step. So let's forget it!"

"No, let's not!" I said vehemently, for in addition to my desire for honest criticism, my feminine curiosity was aroused, and that, as everyone knows is a thirst which must me slaked forthwith. "I insist upon knowing, Dicky. I—I—can't go on with the work until you've told me."

"Remember! you've brought it on your own head," he yielded. "It is not much, except that in this give and take between two of your minor characters, where the husband looks at the photograph of a former spouse of the lady and says he looks like a chimpanzee with the croup—of course, it's a comedy relief line, and you need one right there, but I'm afraid it will fall flat, because no man would ever say anything like that. A woman might, but never a man."

35 CHILDREN GUESTS OF KIWANIANS HERE

Youngsters Who Were To Have Gone to Camp Entertained.

Being deprived of the fun of a week spent at a summer camp after having looked forward to it for weeks, is a disappointing experience to say the least, but it has its advantages, think the 35 under nourished children who were selected by the Kiwanis club to be their guests at the camp this summer and who were guests of the club at the weekly luncheon at the Marion hotel yesterday noon.

When abandoning the plan of a summer camp this year in order that the money might be used to extend help to a greater number, the club decided something should be done for the 35 children who had been selected to go, and the dinner party yesterday, was the result of this decision.

The children were taken to the hotel by members of the club and at noon, a chicken dinner which, for the time being at least, did much to overcome their undernourished condition, was served. Following the dinner the children were entertained with a program of magic by M. Birbaum and E. Williams, two local magicians with no little ability and the party closed with the children being the guests of J. J. Huebner, manager of the Ohio theater, at a theater party.

CEMETERY COUNTY HISTORICAL SPOT

Pioneers Find Last Resting Place in Fish Burial Grounds

A CEMETERY, rich in historic lore, lies almost forgotten a short distance south of Marion.

The burial ground, known as the Fish cemetery, for more than a century, has served as a final resting place for Marion citizens. Its gravestones bear the names of pioneer families who helped to hew Marion county from a wilderness and turn the forests into fertile fields.

Golf Club on Site

Located just south of the Marion Country club on the east side of the Prospect road the cemetery occupies what was once part of the Samuel Fish homestead. Samuel Fish was one of the early settlers of Marion county and at one time owned a large tract of land south of Marion, including the tract that is now the country club golf course.

Born in Providence, R. I., Sept. 27, 1793, Samuel Fish migrated westward with his parents, Preserved and Elizabeth Fish, in 1821. They settled in Union county and with the death of the elder Fish, shortly afterward, the family moved to Pleasant township in this county. When his mother and sister died in 1822 Samuel Fish became the owner of the homestead which he eventually increased to 700 acres.

Samuel Fish was the grandfather of Mrs. A. H. Honefanger of 421 south State street.

Like Plantation

With an estate of 700 acres Mr. Fish was among the largest landowners in the county. Many Negroes were employed to till the land and the farm presented an appearance not unlike the great plantations of the south. The workers lived in cabins about the farm.

For years after the Fish estate was broken up, and even today, many Marion Negroes descended from these families on the Fish farm.

It was Samuel Fish who founded this almost forgotten cemetery more than a century ago. The exact date of the first burial there cannot be learned although it is known to be more than 100 years old as one gravestone bears the date of 1828.

The cemetery was intended as a burial ground for members of the Fish family but later came to be the resting place of many early pioneers of that neighborhood. Gooding, Freeman, McClaskey, Court, Sherman are family names found on the grave stones.

Although the bodies of the immediate members of the Fish family have been removed to the Marion cemetery the old burial ground still is the resting place for many of the county's early residents.

Above is a general view of the Fish cemetery. Although many of the gravestones pass the 100-year mark the majority of them are in good condition. At the right is a picture of the oldest marker to be found in the cemetery. It bears the date—April 20, 1828.

Plot for Negroes

On the east side of the cemetery is a plot set aside as a burial ground for Negroes. The exact number of graves in this section is unknown. Many of those buried there are descendants of the families who tilled the Fish farm lands. Strangely enough the most recent burial there was that of a former resident of the Fish farm, Thomas J. Phez, 79, who was laid to rest there July 18. Phez, born of slave parents in Virginia, came to Ohio following the Civil war and became an employe on the Fish farm.

The oldest tombstone to be found in the cemetery today marks the grave of an 11-year-old girl, Mabel A., the daughter of Orrin and Ruth Allen. The marker bears the date of April 20, 1828, and gives the age of the child as 11 years, six months and 15 days. Another stone, badly worn by the ravages of the elements with only the date distinguishable, marks the grave of a person buried there 100 years ago last week. It bears the date July 21, 1831. Many other stones are dated in the early thirties.

A Maryland man has invented a press for use in stores to enable new shoes to be shaped exactly like customers' old ones, assuring a correct and comfortable fit as soon as they are worn.

Kleinmaier's Are Leading the Way to Better Times.

WE'VE taken the bull by the horns to meet new economic conditions. Profits are forgotten, former prices are disregarded in bringing our stock to its present lower price levels.

There's a Lot of Talk about Low Prices

What does it mean?

Today, your dollar is larger than it has been for many, many years.

But don't be confused by all this bally-hallo over low prices.

Only when you invest your money in an article of merit, is it well spent. Especially when quality clothes can now be bought for so little more than cheap, inferior, ill-fitting clothes.

Remember — our reputation of almost 50 years is back of our policy.

The state legislature of Ohio, at the last session, passed the Yoder bill, which provides 15 days strictly military leave annually for officers and employes of the state, counties, cities, and school districts who are members of the Ohio National Guard, Naval Militia, or Officers Reserve Corps, and is effective July 29. This will enable such officers to attend training camps as at Camp Perry without interfering with their official duties.

Keep your mind on the GAME ...not on your FEET

● Doctors call it dermatophytosis ... golfers call it "athlete's foot"... you may call it ringworm. Sufferers have been known to give it worse names. For this miserable fungus that causes itching feet and acute discomfort has spread over most of the civilized world.

Among golfers, particularly, is the trouble wide-spread. And how can a man keep his eye on the ball when his thoughts are centered on his burning, itching feet?

To golfers, and to all sufferers from "athlete's foot," Thylox Sulphur Soap comes as a promise of relief.

Medical authorities have long recommended the use of sulphur in the treatment of skin disorders. Now, with Thylox Sulphur Soap, the frequent application of pure colloidal sulphur becomes simple and easy. And remember that the sulphur in this new product of The Koppers Research Corp. is so fine in particle size that the sulphur penetrates right into the pores of the skin where it attacks the infection at its seat. No wonder clinics have found Thylox efficacious in the treatment of acne (pimples), eczema, ringworm, scabies, "athlete's foot," etc. Use it to treat an oily skin and as a shampoo soap if you are troubled with dandruff.

If you are a golfer and your game suffers because of your feet, try Thylox Sulphur Soap. If you are not a golfer but yet suffer from "athlete's foot," acne (pimples), eczema or other skin disorders, use Thylox Sulphur Soap. At your druggist's ...35c a cake, $1.00 box of 3 cakes. OR LONG BOY BREAD.

STEPS IN THE EXCLUSIVE TWIST PROCESS THAT "MAKE IT TASTY"

1 Double quantity of rich milk-solids.
2 Only tested flour is used in Twist.

5 Takes longer and costs more to make.
6 Unvarying process insures uniform quality.
7 Wheaty flavor unlike any other bread.

Read What this famous food authority says:

"Pure ingredients and thorough baking are, of course, essential for good bread, but one of the secrets of that delicious home-baked taste and fine texture is to stop the rising at the right point."

The Stars Say—

For Saturday, Aug. 1.

A DAY of subtle, irregular or peculiar experiences or contacts is presaged from the dominant position of the chaotic, exotic and mysterious Neptune, in aspect with Mercury, ruling the mind, and with Venus, who bears rule over all social, domestic, romantic, artistic and intimately personal affairs. The tendencies may be erratic and unfathomable, with peculiar leanings and queer reactions to current stimuli. The behavior may be subtle and the mind visionary and imaginative.

Those whose birthday it is are on the threshold of a year of peculiar or unusual events and experiences, with erratic demeanor in personal contacts and imaginative, visionary and subtle insight mentally. Much depends on wise and responsible reactions to those singular astral forces. Discretion is enjoined. A child born on this day may have a predisposition toward the singular, unusual, mystical and occult, with subtle and shrewd intellect. It should be given an education in practical and liberal lines.

Notable nativity: Robert T. Lincoln, son of The Emancipator.

HOYT LIVES THROUGH BROWNS' RALLY AND ATHLETICS WIN 8-5

Cleveland Again on Short End at Washington, Losing This Time 6-1.

By The Associated Press
BY HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

One more round of intersectional games between the eastern and the western clubs of the major leagues has been completed with the home sectors again coming out far ahead.

Washington's Senators outshone the best performer among the visiting western clubs of the American league but still made a comparatively poor showing and fell far behind the Philadelphia Athletics.

The Senators played 16 games against the west and won nine of them. The Athletics, after losing their opening home game, won 17 straight at Shibe park, losing only when they ventured to Cleveland for a Sunday game.

Hoyt Wins Out

Philadelphia landed on Sammy Gray of the St. Louis Browns in the early innings yesterday and brought the count up to 8-0 in the sixth with the aid of two home runs by Mickey Cochrane. Then the Browns began to reach Waite Hoyt but could not overcome the lead, ending on the short end of an 8-5 count. The Senators likewise made an early start, finding Mel Harder of Cleveland for six hits and five runs in the first four innings and winning 6-1 behind the five hit hurling of Carl Fischer.

The final count of the intersectional series in the American league was 48 victories for the east and 25 for the western visitors. In the National league, the western clubs recorded 40 victories in their home stand while the east took 25 games.

Pirates Surprise

Pittsburgh's Pirates furnished the big surprise of the intersectional series in the elder league. The Bucs won 12 games out of 18, by far the best record, and aided the St. Louis Cardinals, who won ten and lost five, in improving their lead over their slipping eastern rivals.

The Pirates wound up yesterday by trouncing the New York Giants 9 to 0 behind the four hit pitching of Larry French to place themselves only three games behind the fifth place Boston Braves.

The Giants and the Brooklyn Robins had a rough journey, but the Giants managed to hold onto second place although defeated 10 times in 17 games.

St. Louis, its intersectional series over, took on one of its leading rivals, the Chicago Cubs, yesterday, and added a game to its big margin of leadership with a 10 to 3 victory.

The four games made up the entire off-day schedule for the major leagues.

RESULTS YESTERDAY

Erie Roundhouse 5, Huber Mfg. Co. 2; Fairfield 4, Gasco Club 3; Steam Shovel 22, C. & O. 8; C., D. & M. vs. Silk Mill (wet grounds).

If the recreation baseball team representing the Columbus, Delaware & Marion Electric company is as good a sport, collectively speaking, as it should be, it will have taken time out from the daily toil today to think up some little thank you verses for those nine ball players who play under the name of the Erie Roundhouse.

These same Erie boys, with nowhere in particular to go themselves as far as championships are concerned, rose up yesterday afternoon against the Huber Manufacturing company and smashed out a decisive 5-2 victory over the Greenwood street factory team that all but cinches the Industrial league pennant for the Electricians. Mathematically speaking, the Electricians are not yet certain of winning the flag. There are yet three games to play and they have but a two game lead. However, little short of the electrocution of about half of the C., D. & M. players will keep them from taking the flag.

Did They Hit!

The Erie players had on their hitting clothes yesterday. "Mutt" Kellogg, Huber pitcher, will testify to that. Ordinarily Kellogg isn't hit very hard by opposing batters but by the time the fifth inning was completed Kellogg was glad to give up the knoll to "Benny" Crabtree. Crabtree held the Erie to no hits in two innings but the damage was done by that time.

Glenn Price, hurling for the Roundhouse, got himself into several holes by wildness but good support from his teammates pulled him out without serious trouble.

It probably would be more appropriate to designate the contest between the Chesapeake & Ohio railroad and the Steam Shovel as a track meet rather than a softball game. It almost became necessary to stop the game before completion for lack of space in the scorebook. The final count was 22-8. You guessed it. It wasn't much of a ball game for either team. About all it did was fatten the individual batting averages of the players.

Gasco Tripped

This Fairfield Engineering company seems to take a lot of pleasure in upsetting first division teams. Firmly imbedded in seventh place with little chance of getting higher, the Fairfield boys hopped onto the Gasco club pitcher's offerings in the fifth inning yesterday for five counters and turned in a 4-3 victory over the utility company team. The defeat shoves the Gas company into a deadlock with the Steam Shovel for fourth place.

Rain washed out the game at Lincoln park diamond between the C., D. & M. and Silk Mill.

GIRLS' TEAM LIKELY TO ATTRACT LARGE CROWD HERE SUNDAY

Hollywood "Femmes" Boast Ability To Draw; Play at Lincoln Park.

A few years ago baseball partisans thought nothing of seeing Lincoln park grandstand jammed to capacity for a baseball game. However, for the last few years the only game that has been able to attract a capacity crowd to the park has been recreation baseball.

It is quite possible that baseball is about to stage a comeback this Sunday at Lincoln park—one of these one day comebacks to be sure but nevertheless, a comeback. The reason, oh, yes, the Hollywood Movie Stars girls' baseball team is billed to put in a personal nine inning appearance against the baseball representatives of Morral. These lithe, athletically inclined lassies will be one of the few female diamond organizations to sport their wares before a local baseball audience.

Can these girls really play baseball? Well, that's up to you to decide after you have seen them play. However, it might be of interest to see what they have been accomplishing while on their coast-to-coast tour of the last three months. To date they have participated in 72 contests and have won 32 of them. Only last week they are reported to have held the Muncie, Indiana, team to a 5-5 tie before 15,000 frenzied fans. Hamilton, Ohio, took a close decision from them the next day, 8-6.

Sunday will reveal to Marionites whether the team really can play baseball. Frankly, many are dubious, but on the other hand everyone seems to be figuring on going out to see them. There are other attractions in pretty young girls besides their ability to play baseball.

SAINTS BOOST LEAD BY DROPPING BREWS

Colonels Are Idle and Slip Half Game; Tribe Trims Columbus.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, July 31 St. Paul's high flying Saints held a stranglehold on the American Association pennant race with a margin of eight and one half games today as the teams ended their July campaigns.

The Saints extended their long lead yesterday by dropping Milwaukee, 6 to 5, while the still hopeful Colonels loafed and lost a half a game.

Indianapolis and Minneapolis churned the standings by victories in their final games yesterday to gain valuable ground in the fight for runner-up honors. Minneapolis trimmed Kansas City, 5 to 1, behind good pitching by Dutch Henry and jumped from seventh to sixth place, while Indianapolis bested Columbus 6 to 5 with an eighth inning rally that netted three runs and jumped from a tie for fourth position to third place.

"Busher" Clouts Safely 46 Times in Succession

By The Associated Press

INDEPENDENCE, Kas.—Hitting safely in 46 consecutive games, "Babe" Myers, diminutive Independence outfielder, has set a Western association record which surpasses any major league slugger's achievement.

Myers fell short of the minor league mark, however. Joe Wilhoit, with Wichita in the Western league, hit safely in 69 consecutive games in 1919.

Questioned about his consistent hitting, Myers said he always approaches the plate with an attitude of nonchalance and freedom from worry.

"I never swing hard," he explained, "just pick out the ball I want to hit and try to meet it with a good wrist snap.

"If I attempted to use a body swing I couldn't hit the ball past the pitcher."

He attributed his record to "just going up there and trying to get on."

Willie Keeler's hitting streak with the Baltimore Orioles, extending through 44 games of the season of 1897, is still the big time record.

George Sisler holds the modern major league record with hits in 41 consecutive games, made while he was with the St. Louis Browns in 1922.

Classy Events Carded for Short Ship Race Meeting

TIME: 8 p. m., August 3. Place: Marion county fairground race track.

A slight whirr as a rubber barrier flicks across the track a short distance north of the grandstand and the first heat of the first event in the late summer Little Grand Circuit harness races are under way. Stephen G. (Steve to you) Phillips leisurely climbs the low fence surrounding the inside of the oval and makes his way to the judges' stand to assist in clocking the entries in the 26 class trot, the inaugural event of the first night's racing.

Night racing, something Marion sportsmen have been hearing about for a long time but which has never before been attempted on a local track. The innovation alone would probably be enough to draw a huge crowd of spectators to the fairground track.

Will Keep on Coming

The novelty of seeing horse racing at night will draw the people there the first night but it won't keep them coming the second and third and fourth. However, it is almost safe to lay a wager there will be more spectators in the grandstand on the second night of racing and on successive nights than there will be on the opening night of the events. The novelty of night racing will bring them there but horse racing such as Marion has not seen the likes of for a long time will keep them coming.

Aside from the fact there will be some of the finest horses in the Raging Grand and Short Ship circuits pounding their thoroughbred hoofs on the surface of the fairground oval, there will be any number of race pilots aboard the sulkies who are known wherever horses are raced for money.

Parshall Heads List

Heading the list will be Dr. H. M. Parshall of Urbana, race driver deluxe, leading money winner of 1930 and one of the smartest drivers to ever pull a line on a speed merchant. There will be Mat Ray, another celebrity of the racing ovals, Pallen, Fitzpatrick, Brinkerhoff, Blackwell, Erskine, McMillen, Cartnall, Sharpneck, Acton, Craig, Beattie and many others.

If there is any speed in their charges these pilots will get it out. That's why the late summer meeting of the Ohio Short Ship circuit at Fairground track from August 3 to 8 is almost certain to be one of the most successful in the local history of the sport. All races will start at 8 p. m. Box seats may be reserved for the entire week by getting in touch with any official of the meeting. Frank Foster is secretary of the events

Chocolate May Get Shot at Lightweight Crown

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, July 31 — Kid Chocolate, ebony-hued flash from Havana and holder of the somewhat synthetic junior lightweight title, may get a shot at a real championship before the summer is over.

Negotiations now are under way for a 15-round titular match at the Yankee stadium Sept. 10, between Chocolate and Tony Canzoneri, sturdy New York Italian who rules the lightweight roost. It is understood Canzoneri also has accepted terms and all that remains to make the bout official is Cholocate's signature on the dotted line.

lock, Wilson Lefever, H. T. Krout, A. S. Duncan and J. H. Kelly. Some of the trees blocked traffic on the street and cut off power lines.

Save Stock

A large barn at the home of Milo Shaffer north of Edison was burned to the ground during the storm. The farm is owned by Miss Eva Watson, Edison. The barn held approximately 25 tons of hay and sheaf oats gathered from six acres. Several valuable pieces of farm machinery was destroyed. Mr. Shaffer was unable this morning to make an estimate of the damage which was partially covered by insurance. The barn was struck by lightning. The Edison fire department was called but was unable to control the flames.

Near Chesterville another barn was struck by lightning at the home of Mrs. Clara Ruggles and burned to the ground together with a corn crib and a machinery shed. All stock was removed from the barn by neighbors who were also able to save the house and another large barn which were endangered. The heavy rainfall accompanying the storm aided the fire fighters. The damage was estimated at $1,500 and was partially covered by insurance.

Strikes Tower

The home of A. J. Johnson in west North street was struck by lightning with but little damage. The fire department responded to the call there but there were no flames, a charge of electricity having apparently entered on the wires. The Masonic temple building in Main street was also struck in a similar manner with little resulting damage. H. A. Gallagher escaped without injury while in the tower at the Big Four railroad at Edison although a bolt of lightning struck the tower and destroyed several panes of glass.

Don Cleveland received a slight shock which numbed his left arm for some time while sitting by his radio during the height of the storm. A child he was holding was not hurt.

Traffic Blocked

Traffic on Route 95 east of here was tied up for a time after the start of the storm when a large load of hay was overturned by the force of the wind. It fell directly across the road blocking all traffic until removed.

Lightning Causes Blaze at Home of Forest Resident.

FOREST, July 31—Fire caused from a bolt of lightning partially destroyed the residence of James H. Cramer on west Zimmerman street during the severe electrical and rain storm here about 6 p. m. yesterday. Mr. Cramer, who was sitting on the porch of his home was not injured by the bolt.

Contents of the second floor of the house were destroyed by the flames which seemed to burst throughout the entire building. Plastering in all the rooms was torn from the walls and the furnishings on the first floor damaged by fire and water. The Forest fire department responded to a call and succeeded in extinguishing the fire on the first floor.

The loss is estimated at about $700 and is partically covered by insurance. Mr. Cramer lives alone in the house.

STORM FREAKISH HERE

Marion Gets Downpour in Spots; West Hard Hit.

Last night's brief storm assumed freak proportions in and near Marion, battering some small sections with rain and hail for a few moments, and leaving other parts of the city without a sprinkle. Where rain and hail fell, the mercury dropped, while other sections of the city remained hot.

Rain Halts Game

One of four ball games scheduled in Marion last night was rained out at Lincoln park where the C., D. & M. Electric Co. nine was to meet the Susquehanna Silk Mills. Three other games were not disturbed by the storm. Rain and hail fell at Crystal Lake park and at various places on the eastern outskirts of the city.

The heat wave which began its sixth day this morning left the city sweltering yesterday afternoon after chalking up an official 94, the highest temperature of the week. Marionites had a brief respite after a 26 degree drop had lowered the mercury to 68 last night. A bright sun pushed the temperature level steadily upward this morning. Fair weather is forecast for tonight and Saturday.

A year ago the high mark of the day was 86, the low 56.

The storm which swept this district was not entirely local. At almost the same time, an intense storm caused heavy damage in the west, according to the Associated Press.

A cloudburst struck last night on farms along Union Flats, Little Penewawa and Little Almota creeks near Colfax, Wash., washing buildings away and causing property and livestock damage estimated at $100,000. Walls of water eight to 12 feet high swept down gulches carrying farm buildings, garages, machinery and fences downstream. Several families escaped on horses.

Local floods with sufficient power to wash out bridges, overturn motor cars and undermine railroads were reported from Utah, Arizona and Montana. Several sections of the Lincoln highway west of Cheyenne were swept away and motorists were marooned.

Price of Bread at 8 Cents as Bakers Quarrel

Marion housewives were buying their bread for 8 and 9 cents a loaf today while Marion bakers quibbled in a price war. The cut became effective yesterday, dropping from the regular retail plane of 10 cents.

A majority of Marion bakers are believed to be involved in the war, as the low prices are practically citywide. The reduction is not due to a cheapening of quality, but to a price war, one baker stated this morning.

Others professed ignorance over the cause of the price deflation, one retailer saying he "knew nothing about it." When asked what he was selling bread for today, he replied; "Really, I don't know."

so strikingly in real life answers to Edison's famous question as to what members of a similar, but imaginary, group, should do

"We traveled slow until passing over the divide of the Planchas de Plata mountains and reaching the Mesas that slope toward the gulf of Lower California," young Gutierrez said.

"Then after reaching Sonoita we struck deep sand and the stage just crawled along. The road was deep ruts in the sand stretching across the desert.

"It was some time last Tuesday the stage broke down. I don't remember whether it was morning or afternoon. We were far out in the desert. We had little water and were without food.

"I thought I could fix the stage but I finally decided it was hopeless after working for hours under the hot sun. It must have been 130 degrees.

"Back a little ways there was a crossing road. It was only a trail. We decided to leave the car and go there so that we would get help if anyone should come along.

Walked Three Days

"We walked for three days and it seemed like the air was burning our skin. The sand was so hot we would lift our feet to cool them off by holding them in the air. Already we were tired of living and walking and terribly thirsty, but we must go on.

"Then the little baby died. Senora Ojeda would not let us bury it. She carried it to her breast and tried to keep walking and woould not let anyone touch it. At last she gave up and fell at the side of the road. She did not drop her baby and I thought she was not dead. But she would not move and we could not bury her because of a dizziness that made us stagger.

"The Orantes brothers, Jesus and Ramon, died the next day. They just sat down beside the road and fell over on their faces. We could not bury them too.

"My father and I and Jesus Ojeda we walked on and pretty soon we don't remember anything. I don't know what happened then I thought we had died too."

While telling the story from his little bed in Sonoita hospital, the youth cried and shuddered. His eyes rolled in fear and an attendant was forced to end the interview. The other survivors are recovering from their ordeal although their condition is still serious.

Augustin Pinto, Mexicali business man who found the bodies and survivors along the road told the rest of the story. He told of burying those who had died and of finding the three survivors almost raging mad, wandering in circles through the sand.

IN ROLES OF HEROES

Boardman and Polando in Full Possession of Turkish City

By The Associated Press

ISTANBUL, Turkey, July 30 — Fortified by a night's sleep in borrowed pyjamas and a breakfast with American coffee, Russell Boardman and John Polando, who made a record non-stop flight from New York to this place, stepped out today into a city which had become theirs overnight.

They got the pyjamas, as Lindbergh once did, from the American ambassador. The coffee was brewed especially for them because they could not go the strong blend preferred in Turkey. They also had brand new suits of clothes.

Difficult to Find Shoes

This latter taxed the resources of the embassy staff, for the fliers came here without luggage and finding a pair of shoes for American feet is not the easiest thing to do in Istanbul. In all the city there were only two pairs to fit the new heroes. The embassy staff found them.

There were hundreds of telegrams awaiting the fliers when they woke up this morning, but the most important was from Mustapha Kemal Pasha, president of the Turkish republic. He wants to meet the men who flew from New York in 49 hours and 20 minutes and probably they will go tomorrow to Yalova, the summer capital which the president created out of a small village of Ismidt.

Some time today they wanted to drive out to the airport for another look at the monoplane Cape Cod, which carried them to a new world's distance record for nonstop flying.

Credited with Record

On the strength of unofficial data, the Americans have taken from Coste the long distance nonstop flight record he held with Maurice Bellonte, with whom he flew 4,909 miles from Paris to Manchuria.

The New York-Istanbul route traveled by the Boardman-Polando plane, Cape Cod, is set unofficially at 4,986 miles.

Everywhere the two Americans were hailed as heroes. The front page of every newspaper was given over to their daring feat, and about their hotel great crowds gathered hoping to catch a glimpse of them.

BOYS PULL ALARM BOXES FOR THRILL

Cheaper Than Movies and Just as Exciting, They Say.

Prompt apprehension of the two boys, one 12 and the other 14 years of age, who early Thursday night sent in a false alarm from box 139 at Uncapher avenue and Perry streets, saved the firemen a busy evening. They planned an evening's entertainment in this manner, they told Fire Chief McFarland, Police Chief W. E. Marks and Police Prosecutor John Wiedemann, yesterday.

The boys were taken to the county detention home early yesterday afternoon to await a hearing before Juvenile Judge Oscar Gast. They told the police and fire officials that they had planned to pull a number of boxes during the evening, that being cheaper than the movies and just as thrilling. Persons living in the vicinity who saw the boys send in the alarm gave the firemen their names and addresses. While admitting their part in the escapade, each boy blamed it on the other.

Firemen have answered a large number of false alarms in recent weeks. As many as three calls in one night have been turned in.

CORN MARKET IS IRREGULAR

Fluctuations in Other Grains Negligible on Chicago Pit Market.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, July 31—Final settlement day for July grain contracts started with the corn market irregular, ranging from ½c decline to ¼c advance. Trade in July corn was only of a scattered sort at first, and the price for that delivery was easy, quarter to half cent lower Bidding, however, that obtained but little response from sellers lifted the market soon to well above yesterday's finish.

It quickly became evident that the "corner" generally believed to exist in July corn had not been relaxed, and instead had been tightened. An advance to 69 cents for July followed, showing an overnight rise of a full cent per bushel Fluctuations in other grains were negligible

July corn began its rise Wednesday when after a slow, steady rise, it suddenly shot up to 68½ cents in the last ten minutes. Squeeze of some sort was apparent and grain pit rumors said one of the government sponsored agencies was short and Thomas H. Howell Long, George S. Milnor, president of the Farmers' National Grain corporation, denied being short.

J. W. T Duvel, chief supervisor of the grain futures administration met yesterday with the business conduct committee and the board of directors of the board of trade. Grain men believed that a settlement of some kind had been negotiated, despite the closing figure yesterday of 68@68¼.

Gyrations in July corn prices were accompanied by no corresponding large volume of dealings but for the most part represented temporary urgency of bids on the reverse. Deliveries of corn to settle contracts expiring today were of liberal amount early totaling 681,000 bushels and included 132 car loadings on railroad tracks. Corn price changes for months other than July were mostly fractional and devoid of significance

Wheat showed a tendency to drop as a result of rains in domestic spring crop territory and because of reports of enlarged Russian offerings abroad The start was ¾ off to ¼ up with a subsequent sag all around Oats followed wheat Provisions were easier responsive to the trend of hog values.

Loans up to $1000
Should all prayers and wishes be answered at once, the world would be in an awful mess. The muddle which would be caused by the prayers of one husband and wife is a terrible thing to think of. The husband prays for a nice little farm—while the wife prays for a modern apartment in the city—and the war is on.
It's a good thing to talk over the family finances with "the wife"—no doubt she'll remind you of City Loan service—the personal loan service made to householders for home needs.
There are many such needs in the spring, and many bargains to be had for cash. You and "the wife" pray for what you want—but when you get up off your knees—hustle right over to The City Loan where you need only make your wants known.

NEW AUTO SALE LAW IN EFFECT TODAY

Title of Cars To Be Recorded in Different Manner for 76 Days.

Bills of sale were shelved for 76 days this morning as Everett B. Grigsby, clerk of courts, began the enforcement of a new law requiring certificates of title to supplant the former bills of sale.

The law was passed early this year by the legislature, and before the session was over the law makers had changed their minds and had repealed the law, restoring the registration of motor vehicles to the present system.

As the repealer was passed some time after the law requiring certificates of title, clerks of court all over Ohio must change their system for a 76-day period until the repeal law becomes effective.

The new system requires that a person purchasing an automobile, making a part payment on the car and mortgaging the car for the rest of the payments, shall not be given a certificate of title but an application for certificate of title instead.
